This Frontier Needs Heroes and music in Art Galleries

It began summer '07. Brother/Sister team, Brad and Jessica Lauretti of the Brooklyn staple This Frontier Needs Heroes signed on as music curators at the Dam, Stuhlinger Art Gallery in Williamsburg. The curators gathered some of the hottest names in Brooklyn's emerging music scene and crowds packed Dam, Stuhlinger's Garden to catch rising stars under the open sky, and a summer music tradition was born. Brad and Jessica's musical taste gets the Deli's approval. This year they booked acts we love like She Keeps Bees, TK Webb, Acrylics, La Strada, Elizabeth Harper, Justice of the Unicorns, and a whole bunch of artists we don't know that we'll check out pronto! Don't miss the opening night, this Friday, with Last Good Tooth, She Keeps Bees, Matamoros, and - of course - the hosting band This Frontier Needs Heroes. For a full list of the shows go here.
