About Sediment:

Sediment (n.) Solid fragments of inorganic or organic material that come from the weathering of rock and are carried and deposited by wind, water, or ice... Metaphorically, all kinds of visual stimuli are stored in the "sediment" of our memory throughout our lives. In the artwork, "Sediment", artist Anna Frants explores the scientific principles of vision and inquires how images compiling long term memory are pulled out. Not being classified in historical timeline, sometimes images achieve perfect aesthetical combinations despite a demanding timetable.

About Anna Frants:

Russian artist Anna Frants' media installations are total environments that envelop the viewer in image and sound. Her work employs state-of-the-art technologies and is distinguished by precision and direct simplicity. Just as her Sterligovite predecessors conceptually redefined space in paint, Frants utilizes video and audio to reconfigure a viewer's reality.

Anna Frants is the co-founder of NCCA and The St Petersburg Art Project. She is the founder and curator of Russia largest new media festival, "Cyberfest", which is held annually at The Hermitage Museum in St Petersburg. In 2009, her art was included in exhibits worldwide, including The St Petersburg Biennial and The Moscow Biennial.

Frants divides her time between living in New York City and St. Petersburg.
